In the middle of the campus stately William Penn Building rises to its four stories of height. In this block-long building are the class rooms, the library, the museum, administrative offices, and science laboratories. On the fourth floor is the astronomical observatory, which contains an unusually fine six-inch telescope. Student industry provides for training and work in the print shop and bindery, which are located on the basement floor of the building. On this same floor is the bookstore, which is managed by students.

WILLIAM PENN BUILDING

WOMEN'S RESIDENCE BUILDING

The Women's Residence Building consists of four cottages named after women famous in Quaker history—Margaret Fell, Elizabeth Fry, Mary Dyer and Sybil Jones. These cottages are connected by brick cloisters. The building is of brick construction with tile roof. On each floor are several suites consisting of three rooms which are occupied by two girls. Single rooms are also available.

A fine art collection hangs in the drawing room of the Residence Building. This collection was a gift of Major S. H. M. Byers, former Consul-General to Switzerland. A dining-room with a seating capacity of 175 is located on the first floor of Elizabeth Fry Cottage. Other facilities include the hospital and the laundry, which are available to residents of the building.

Outstanding among the buildings on the campus is Spencer Memorial Chapel. The white collonades of its colonial architecture add much to the beauty and symmetry of the campus. This building is a permanent memorial to the late Harry L. Spencer, whose wife donated $75,000.00 for the erection of the building. The Memorial Chapel was completed and dedicated February 8, 1923.

To the students and college visitors the three-manual pipe organ peeling out the grand march of graduation is a never-to-be-forgotten memory. This instrument was donated to the college by the daughters of Mrs. Spencer to perpetuate her memory.

On the lower floor of the chapel is the social hall, which is used for meetings and social gatherings. On this floor also are the studios occupied by the music departments.

PRESENTATION

Dear Miss Alice Moe:

You have completed two years at William Penn College—two years full of work, play and success. During this period you have given us many things. We learned to seek refinement and to appreciate it through your efforts. We want to adhere to the rules of good sportmanship because you have and we admire it. We desire to be understanding as you are. We wish to make lasting friendships as you have done. We want to cultivate the open mind, to retain the spirit of youth, to reach higher academic achievements and to find greater social affability as you have taught us. We attempt to repay you for the work you have done, the help you have given and the friend you will always be by dedicating this book to you.

Sincerely,
The Student Body.

Women's Athletic Association

The Women's Athletic Association is an active campus organization including all the women students and faculty women.

Development of interest in athletics among women students is the objective of this organization. To stimulate the interest a point system is in effect whereby girls may receive awards:

30 points—Numeral	85 points—Letter
40 points—Insignia	135 points—Sweater

This year the girls have participated in soccer, swimming, basketball, kittenball, and tennis. Competitive games have been held with other schools.

The May Fete and a spring banquet are sponsored by the organization each year.

Officers include: Marjorie Caldwell, President; Alice Jones, Vice-President; Margaret McCracken, Secretary; Lillian Anderson, Treasurer; Ruth Koch, Publicity Chairman.

House Council

The House Council is a representative body which governs the Women's Residence Association. It is composed of a president, Elizabeth Millet; Vice-President, Virginia Reynolds; Secretary, Gweneth Bryant; Treasurer, Ruth Kock. Floor representatives are: Alice Jones, Hilma Gilbert, Bryda Leonard, Virginia Henning, and Barbara Nichols. Class representatives are: Senior, Floribel Andrews; Junior, Zula Johnston; Sophomore, Margaret McCracken; Freshman, Dorothy Smith.

Mrs. Bessie Crumbaugh, the dormitory hostess, also a member of the Council, has won the confidence and respect of everyone.

The girls sponsor a number of social functions. Class dinners and special dinners are held for non-residents. One of the high social events of the college year is Open House, when other college students and friends are invited to inspect dormitory life.

Home Economics Club

The aim of the Penn Home Economic Club are both social and cultural. Its membership, numbering about forty, is composed of girls who are enrolled in the home economics department, or who are especially interested in the different phases of homemaking.

The Club is affiliated with the American Home Economics Association, and with the American Association of Student Home Economics Club, and its name appears on the honor roll of Iowa Home Economics Clubs, for outstanding club activities.

Among the social activities sponsored by the club during the current year, were a steak fry to which all freshman home economics girls were invited, a Christmas party, and a tea for the mothers of the members and for faculty women. At the end of the year, the senior club members will be entertained at a picnic. Educational projects carried on this year include a study of consumer buying of clothing, household equipment, and cosmetics. At the February meeting of the Mahaska County Home Economics Club, senior members of the Penn Club presented a radio skit, entitled, "Factual Advertising Goes on the Air."

Young Women's Christian Association

The Y. W. C. A. is one of the religious organizations on the campus. It meets every Tuesday morning during the chapel period. Its aim this year has been "Christian Youth Building a New World." For the meetings, many outside speakers were secured, and many discussion groups were held. Along with the Y. M. C. A., this organization sponsored vesper services at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and on the day of World Day of Prayer.

In addition to being spiritual, it also has social functions. It helped sponsor the opening reception, Hallowe'en carnival, and a taffy-pull.

Pep Club

The Pep Club is the only exclusive club on the campus of William Penn College. New members are elected by old members in the spring and at no time can the membership exceed twenty-four. The club's activity starts with the annual breakfast at which time the new members are introduced and become acquainted with the purpose of the club.

All during the year the members promote pep on the campus by conducting pep meetings and by attendance at the games.

The club is aided in its activity by the yell leader, Tommy Crawford.

Green Peppers

The Green Peppers is a pep club for freshman girls. It has been more active this year than at any previous time.

The club participated in the homecoming parade and decorated the stadium for that event. Club uniforms consist of white blouses, dark skirts, green pepper badges and green caps.

Three times this year parties have been held at which the town girls were the guests of the dormitory members. The first party on October 7 was a dinner at the dormitory followed by skating in the social hall. On December 8, a taffy pull and pot luck supper honoring their sponsor, Mrs. Miller, was held in the down town Y. W. C. A. rooms. The last event was an evening of games with refreshments followed by a slumber party in the third unit. A waffle breakfast was enjoyed the next morning.

Regular meetings were conducted at each party by the officers which include: Elleen Lee Tatum, President; Merridy Hoar, Vice-President; Geraldine Craven, Secretary-Treasurer. Mrs. Robert Miller is faculty sponsor.

HIS HOURS

Penn Letter Club

During the past year there has been a revival of the Penn Letter Club upon the campus of William Penn College. All major letter winners attending school are eligible for membership. Twenty-three men who have won their athletic awards are active members in the club this year. Willard "Doc" Ragan is president of the organization; Chuck Bainbridge, vice-president; Walt Van Donselaar, secretary-treasurer. Other members of the organization are: C. Weatherwax, Herbert Heald, Dick Williams, Keith Harris, Myron Sorden, Winfred Kenoyer, Ben Braafhart, John Scheuermann, Ralph Deadman, Robert Renaud, Harold Ruby, Bruce Harley, Frank Dillon, Gerald Anderson, Eddie VerSteeg, Roy Watson, William Trent, Lewis Dye, Ambrose Dollar, and Dale DeVault.

Football

The completion of the 1938 football campaign found Penn with a record of three wins, one tie and three losses. This, however, represents the most successful season for Penn since 1932.

Undoubtedly the greatest triumph was the 14—7 beating which the Quakers pinned on one of their most bitter rivals, the Parson Wildcats.

Penn started the season strongly by smothering Washington Junior College 36—0 in the season's opener. Immediately following this they grabbed two conference wins from Wartburg and Parsons. However, toward the close of the season Penn displayed an inconsistent brand of football, which, coupled with bad breaks, resulted in losses to Illinois Western State Teachers and Central, both by one touchdown. A homecoming victory was snatched away when Penn failed twice from within Wesleyan's five yard line, leaving the score 7—7. The climax of the season was the Armistice game with the Dutch. A blocked punt and soggy field helped Central in their one touchdown victory over a favored Penn eleven.

Captain "Doc" Ragan piloted the Quakers through the 1938 season and will be succeeded by Gerald Andersen. "Andy" was selected by the players at the annual football banquet given by retiring Captain Ragan.

Chuck Bainbridge, outstanding sophomore quarterback, gained a berth on the all-conference team by his passing and punting.

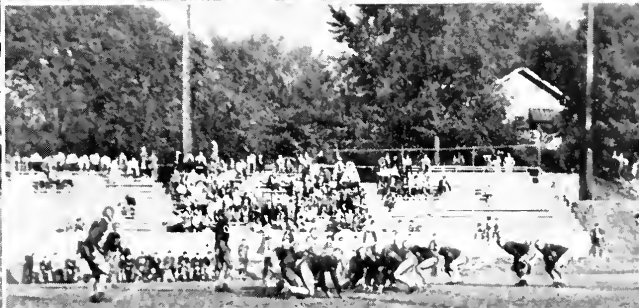

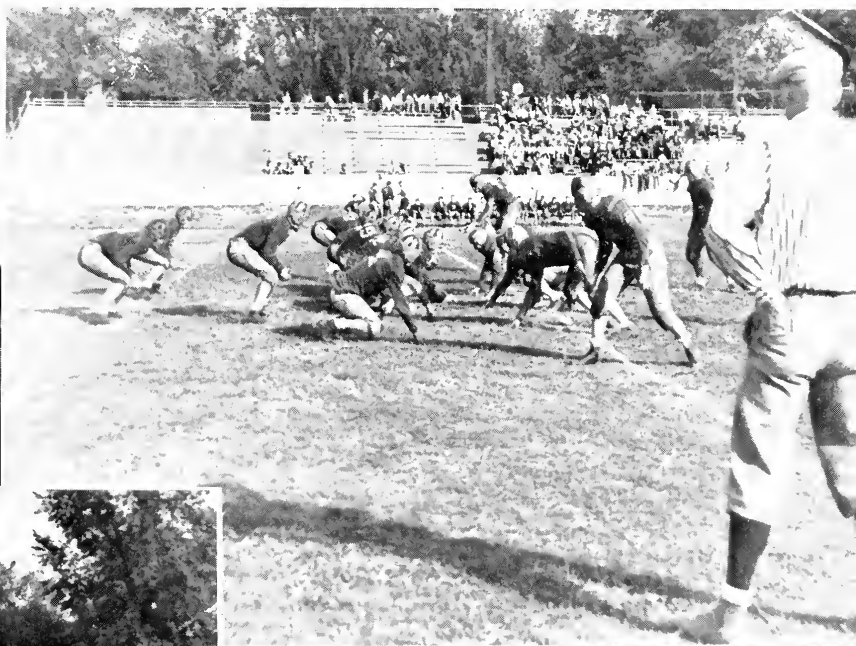

Seniors who will be lost by graduation include Captain "Doc" Ragan, Chuck Weatherwax, Dick Williams, Ben Braffart, John Scheuermann, and Ralph Deadman. Other lettermen include Gerald Andersen and Roy Clark, Juniors. Sophomores, Watson, Bainbridge, Amby Doller, McCormick, Louis Dye, and Dale DeVault.

Marion Wilson assisted Coach Whalin in care of the equipment. Coach Whalin was ably assisted by Fred Radloff of Iowa City, who served as line coach.

Associated Men Students

Men students who take their meals at the Women's Residence Building held a meeting in the drawing room October 5th at which a constitution was adopted, officially creating the Associated Men Students, an organization to promote fellowship and social activities. The officers elected were: President, Dick Williams; Vice-President, Blaine Pickett; Secretary-Treasurer, Paul Mitchell. Committees were appointed by the president, consisting of: Athletic Committee, Keith Harris, Cam Smith, and Frank Dillon; and a Social Committee, Van Henkle, Ben Miller, Frank Aten, and Don Witter. Faculty sponsors are Prof. J. Robert Miller and Prof. Charles Hill.

Among activities sponsored by the Association were various athletic tournaments, including a series of volley-ball games and ping-pong contests. The equipment for conducting skating parties was taken over from the college and carried on by the Association. On Penn Day evening, October 14th, the Associated Men Students sponsored a banquet and entertainment.

The Association presented a program of "Men's Follies" in the Chapel on November 22nd. "The Sailor's Log," directed by Miss Alice Moe, portrayed in all-male cast of thirty actors several amusing scenes in a sailor's travels. Short features between scenes were added bits of humor. Beryl Perisho took the leading role as the sailor. Piano accompaniment was furnished by Rollin Eaton.

Young Men's Christian Association

Leonard Hall, President and Van Henkle, Vice-President, assisted by an able cabinet, have directed the Young Men's Christian Association through a very successful year. Mr. Huffman has performed splendidly as adviser for this group, and through his efforts many able and inspiring speakers have been obtained.

Among the speakers presented to the group were Mr. Corlett, local attorney and former Y. M. C. A. worker, and Charles Haworth, principal of the Oskaloosa High School. Several local ministers have contributed much to the thinking of the Association this year.

Earlier this year the Association, in cooperation with the Y. W. C. A., presented the annual Hallowe'en Carnival. Students were entertained by everything from fortune tellers to weight guessers. The little German Band wandered from booth to booth playing tunes. The highlight of the program was the amateur show conducted by "Colonel" C. B. Pickett. Prizes also were offered for the best costumes.

Early in the second semester the Y. M. C. A., again in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A., sponsored a Sunday Vesper service in recognition of National Prayer Day. A musical program was given by the students, and Dr. McGrew spoke. Attendance at the meetings and interest in the organization's work have reached a new high this year.

Basketball

A final summary of the season's basketball results finds Penn with a total of seven wins, as compared to eleven setbacks. Despite the fact that Penn ended well down the line in the final conference ratings, they furnished a series of threats to the leading contenders throughout the season, as the scores indicate. Penn flashed an early season splurge of four wins, compared to one loss, which gained second position for them at one time.

Next year will probably find all regulars returning, since none of them are Seniors. Chuck Bainbridge was elected honorary captain for the past season and performed consistently at guard.

Regulars included Kiester and Bainbridge at guard, Watson, Andersen, and Roe handling the center post, with Trent and Hora at forward. Stanton and Bryan were called upon for practically all of the utility service.

Baseball

The 1938 baseball team registered triumphs over Graceland and Simpson, while losing to Simpson, Wartburg, and Burlington. K. Harris behind the plate and F. Dillon on the mound composed the battery, while the infield included Renaud, who batted in cleanup, at firstbase, H. Williams and Watson alternating at second, Sorden at short, and Kenoyer holding down thirdbase. Patrolling the outfield were those three ball hawks, Van Donselaar, Doller, and Criss.

Twenty-six men reported for the first practice this spring, and the opening game was with Illinois State Teachers April 12. Following this came conference games with Central, Parsons, Simpson, and Wartburg.

Track

The 1939 track season opened April 12th at Western Illinois State Teachers. Returning lettermen included Andersen, Bainbridge, Captain Doller, Heald, and Harley. These men, strengthened with other veterans and this year's freshmen, should pile up the points for Penn and bolster last year's record.

Tennis

The 1938 team, composed of Deadman, Constantine, James, and Day, trimmed Parsons twice and lost to Central for a successful season.

Penn's tennis prospects are very bright this spring as Roe and Stanton, former State high school doubles champions, are enrolled as Freshmen at Penn, and Deadman, former letterman, will be available for this springs matches.

"B" Squad Basketball

The Penn Reserves under the direction of Doc Ragan played their customary schedule in the Y. M. C. A. A-class league downtown. Members of the team included Ver Steeg and Ragan at guards, Putman and B. Perisho alternating at center, with Smith and Dillon at forward. Other men who assumed relief roles were Byerly, Forsythe, Latham, Sabin, Harley, Stevenson and Butcher.

Forensics

William Penn College has, for a number of years, been most outstanding in Forensics.

The 1938-39 season opened with a preliminary Peace Oratorical contest in November. Very splendid original orations were given by Lewis Harrison, Leonard Hall, and Henry Shimer. In December, Lewis Harrison represented Penn in the State Contest at Coe College in Cedar Rapids. At the same time, Peggy Cheairs won honors in the extemporaneous division, speaking on the subject "The United States' Foreign Policy."

Those participating in inter-collegiate debate were, Roy Clark, Frank Aten, Lewis Harrison, Kathleen Latham, Peggy Cheairs, Max Graham, Floyd Crist, and Olin Byerly. The National Pi Kappa Delta question for this season was, "Resolved, that the government should cease using public funds, including credit, to stimulate business."

The group entered in the Inter-collegiate State Forensic Tournament at Cedar Rapids on March 16, 17, and 18, included Roy Clark, Lewis Harrison, Loal Blunt, Kathleen Latham, and Helen Rice. Helen was rated "Superior" in Poetry Reading.

On March 29, 30, and 31, the team went to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, for the Provincial Convention.

Bryan, Dye, Leonard, Poush, N. Reynolds.

Library Staff

The library staff was very satisfactorily headed this year by Miss Betts with several assistants aiding her.

There are several very interesting features about the library which very few know. One of the most interesting is that the college takes 140 magazines and newspapers, of which seventy-five are subscribed for, while the other sixty-five are donated. Another very interesting feature is a cabinet given by Charles Kent ('95), which is located in the periodical room. It contains eighty-one slides showing handwritten letters by famous people, old confederate money, a few school books used when colonies were first settled here, and many other interesting articles. Another feature is that the Carnegie Endowment Fund for International Peace, through the International Relations Club, gives two books of very worthwhile reading to the college library annually.

College Council

The College Council is the one organization on the campus representing the interests of the college students as a group. The Council is made up of one representative from each of the different organizations on the campus, with three councilmen at large, and seven members of the faculty, who are appointed by the President of the College.

The Council meets the first Wednesday of every month in the private dining room of the Women's Residence Building. The purpose of these meetings is to promote and preserve the best customs, interests, and traditions of college life. It is here that suggestions are made and advisable reforms advocated. Problems of the students as well as the college are discussed and acted upon by this group.

Drama

Activities of the Drama Department are shown in various ways about the campus.

Replacement of the Speech tournament by the Festival has proved a success. The plays of the Festival continue three nights with three plays each night and were held April 16, 17, 18. Direction of the entire Festival is done by students under the supervision of Miss Alice Moe. Other types of work demonstrated at the Festival were public speaking, choral verse, and poetry reading.

Another way in which the Drama Department is useful is in the help given in the all-college productions. Make-up and costuming for both the Penn Pageant and the Men's Follies were done by the members of Drama Club.

At the opening reception the play "The Full Circle," a comedy, was given. This play was taken to different towns in the county.

"The Doctor of Lonesome Folk," a play in pantomime, was given as the Christmas play. It was an entirely different type of play and was favorably received.

Cooperation between the Music Department and the Drama Department has produced some memorable Vesper Services. "Dust of the Road" was given at the Christmas Vespers.

The Dramatic Department of William Penn College is divided into two organizations.

Silver Masque originated in 1935 and functioned for a few years then became dormant. It was revived by Miss Moe last year. Membership in the Silver Masque Club is an honorary position and is obtained by successful work in dramatic productions.

Under the supervision of Miss Moe a new organization, The Penn Players, was formed last year. This organization is now the largest on the campus made up of sixty members.

The president of the Penn Players is chosen from the Silver Masque and is of senior rating. Helen Rice has ably filled this position for this year.

Christian Workers

In any school with the vital religious background and support that William Penn College enjoys, it is quite natural that many students should spend part of their hours in definite Christian service.

Since religious expression and Christian fellowship is the keynote of the Christian Workers Group, anyone is welcomed into the group who is especially interested in developing lifetime Christian leadership, either professionally, or as an active layman of the church.

Twenty-five active members have given freely in their support of this year's program. Besides the regular monthly meetings, the Christian Workers have sponsored weekly college prayer meetings, a chapel program, and two socials.

The most important function of the group, however, is the Gospel Team work. Services have been held at nine meetings in Iowa outside Oskaloosa. Also many services have been conducted among the local churches and Sunday Schools.

Leaders of the group this year have been: Herschel Mendenhall, President; Alice Jones, Vice-President; Kathleen Latham, Secretary; Lewis Harrison, Treasurer; Gweneth Bryant, Social Chairman; Ruby Dahlke, Pianist; and Prof. Herbert Huffman, Faculty Sponsor.

Quaker

The 1939 Quaker—this book— is published by the Junior Class. The purpose is to help you retain a memory of your friendships, associations, and activities of your days at William Penn College.

For some, the publication of this annual has meant days of toil, grievous moments, long hours and little sleep; but also hours of gladdest remembrances and many happy times. Every person who worked on the staff deserves special credit for the work done.

If this book may at sometime bring to you a pleasant smile and force away a frown—the hard work was not done in vain. Hope you enjoy it!

Elementary Teachers Club

This year a new and outstanding professional club was organized on William Penn Campus. The Penn Elementary Teachers Club is the first of its kind here. All students taking elementary education are members. The club holds regular meetings and plans both social and educational programs with occasional outside speakers.

The main purpose of the organization is to bring before the group items of interest and value to persons either teaching or planning to teach in an elementary school.

This year their outside project has been marionette shows, with the members making and operating their own marionettes and writing their own scripts.

The sponsor of the Elementary Club is Dr. Lulu Marie Jenkins; President, Mary Gardner; Vice-President, Ruth Koch; Secretary, Gweneth Bryant; and Treasurer, Geraldine Craven.

Honor Students

The 1939 Quaker Staff presents the following students to be outstanding among the 1939 graduates. They have been selected because of their service, loyalty, and because they are representative of the William Penn College student body.

Ralph Deadman's graduation brings to an end his four years of fine basketball and football playing. His loss will be greatly felt in the athletic department. Whenever a good business manager is needed "Icky" is called to action. He has served in this capacity on the Chronicle and Quaker staffs. In Forensics and in the dramatic groups he has done much.

Academic honors among the men students go to Robert Poush. Bob has also done fine work in extra-curricular activities. He was editor-in-chief of the 1938 Quaker. He has done much work in Forensics and holds presidency of International Relations Club this year. Many of Bob's hours have been spent in Y. M. C. A. and in library work.

Helen Rice heads the largest organization on the campus—The Penn Players. She is also president of the honorary dramatic society—The Silver Masque. In the State contest she won superior rating in poetry reading. Helen is active in Y. W. C. A., College Council, Pep Club, and Forensics. She ranks highest academically among the women students of the 1939 graduating class.

Elizabeth Millett seems to do just about everything. She is a member of the Pep Club and worked on the 1938 Quaker. She has held office in the Woman's Athletic Association, in the Y. W. C. A., and on the College Council. As president of the House Council, she keeps things running smoothly in the dormitory.

Van Henkle is the fellow who is responsible for that Chronicle you read every so often. He deserves much commendation for the work he has done on the paper the past three years. His editorship has automatically made him a member of the College Council. Van has been outstanding in the International Relations Club, the Y. M. C. A., and he held a position on the 1938 Quaker Staff.

Among the campus leaders we are proud to present Willard "Doc" Ragan—captain of the 1938 football squad, president of the Penn Letter Club, president of the Senior Class, and coach of "B" squad basketball team. Polite, capable, dependable, loyal, and "swell" describe "Doc."

Music

The William Penn College department of music provides unequalled supervisors to its various divisions. The voice department has proved itself worthy of the efforts of its instructor, Professor Marian T. Nagler. Professor Murray Baylor, in charge of the instrumental music, has shown his ability as an instructor of unexcelled quality.

Dr. Hans Wolf, music instructor at John Fletcher college, directed this year's presentation of Handel's "Messiah," on Sunday, December 18, at the Spencer Memorial Chapel. Both college choirs and various church choirs cooperated in the traditional musical event of the Christmas season. Soloists appearing were Professor Marian T. Nagler, soprano, and Ben Shepherd, a tenor, both of Penn and Mrs. Forney Reich, alto.

Each Friday morning chapel for the past year has consisted of music—vocal and instrumental, alternating each week. A special program was presented on the last day of the Pastor's Short Course in March.

The Quaker choir, a select group organized early in the second semester, made appearance at New Providence, Muscatine, Earlham, Indianola, Des Moines, Stewart, Marshalltown, and an afternoon broadcast from Station WOI, Ames during April and May. Those participating were Ben Shepherd, Homer Powell, Cecil Stoughton, Louis Harrison, Jean Roberts, Louise Conover, Gweneth Bryant, Opal Calef, and Thelma Johnson.

To climax the year's events, several joint recitals and solo recitals by Louise Conover, organist, Mary Martha Hoar, pianist, Ben Shepherd, tenor, and Rollin Eaton, pianist, were presented.

Choir

The William Penn College Choir, under the capable supervision of Professor Marian T. Nagler, has distinguished itself in many ways during the past year. The choir, consisting of forty college students, made its debut at the Methodist Church early in the year. Several special numbers were presented as part of the Thanksgiving and Christmas vesper services. A group of carollers, made up of choir members, rendered many selections to the nearby residents during the Christmas holidays. The high-light of this year's activity was the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "The Mikado," under the able direction of Professors Murray Baylor and Marian Nagler.

Band

Nineteen Penn students have found the band an interesting and profitable way in which to spend their hours. Under Professor Baylor's able leadership the band has continued to rise to a more prominent place in the college music program. It led the Fall Homecoming Parade and played at several basketball games.

Two concerts were presented in chapel on December 16 and April 14. Both were highly appreciated by the audience, and most of the students will long remember the excellent rendition of "The Whistler and His Dog" by Pryor, which fairly brought down the house.

Operetta

"The Mikado," a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, was presented in the Spencer Memorial Chapel on April 28, under the direction of Professor Murray Baylor and Marian T. Nagler.

Nanki-Poo, played by Ben Shepherd, has fled from the court of his father, The Mikado of Japan, portrayed by Paul Mitchell, in order to escape the wiles of Katisha, an elderly lady, impersonated by Jean Roberts. While thus disguised, Nanki-Poo meets Yum-Yum, played by Thelma Johnson, and falls in love with her. She and her sisters, Pitti-Sing, (Esther Mae Kindig) and Peep-Bo, (Frances Haas) have all left school to prepare for Yum-Yum's wedding with Ko-Ko, (Kent Fisher). In despair, Nanki-Poo is about to kill himself, but he is restrained by Ko-Ko, Pooh-Bah "Lord High Everything Else," (Louis Harrison), and Pish-Tush, (Cecil Stoughton), another aristocrat. Nanki-Poo and Ko-Ko finally come to an agreement whereby Yum-Yum and Nanki-Poo will be married for a month, at which time the latter will be beheaded. The plot thickens when Yum-Yum refuses to marry him, because of the law that when a married man is executed, his wife must be buried alive. But after the affidavit of Nanki-Poo's death has been made, Pooh-Bah gives Nanki-Poo and Yum-Yum permission to leave the country. In the meantime, Ko-Ko has relieved the situation by becoming Katisha's suitor, and she accepts him.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club is an organization composed of students and faculty members who are definitely interested in international problems.

International understanding has been the aim of the group, because of the tense situation which has prevailed in Europe this year.

Meetings of the group were held on the first Tuesday of each month. Programs of the meetings included talks by George Pritchard, Dr. Eric Rothe, Dr. Elizabeth Baylor, and Professor Charles Hill. Discussions were held under the leadership of the president, Robert Poush.

Understanding of the club was aided materially by the outside speakers, who spoke in the high school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Oskaloosa Peace Council. Among the most outstanding of these speakers was Alfred Edwards, M. P., who also spoke in Chapel.

The group gained much information from Raymond Wilson, representing the American Friend's Service Committee, who just returned from a European trip.

How to Graduate

Now after four years we will again be able to say a few words of our own. We have never wanted to withhold anything, but it takes four years to gain Senior strength of conviction.

In a few days we will have discharged our last duties as students and will be succeeded by the capable Juniors. We wish them the best of good fortune.

We all know of the various difficulties which have been met, but even though some of them were trying, we realize that they were all part of a true education.

Since we must leave, it is with mingled feelings—regrets that pleasant friendships and associations must be severed, joy that we have been able to furnish the college with leaders in all phases of campus life.

College should be a place of life as well as a place for preparation for life. We have prepared ourselves for varied professions—many of us will teach, some will become doctors and lawyers, while others hope for the title of hausfrau.

June 2, 1939, will mean much to us all. On that day we will close forever a well known door and open a new one.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Class of 1940

Meet the Junior Class! It takes its bow this year, and now's the time to get acquainted.

Do you remember those stark, empty spaces in the initial letter? They are filled up with daubs of cement now, and isn't it more pleasing to see the words "Class of 1940, '41 and '42" there with the other classes! We appreciate the good work of our Junior Class President in "starting the ball rolling." And while we're on this subject, perhaps you might like to know that Roy is also president of Pi Kappa Delta this year. He's been on the Debate team too.

Then there's the matter of football captain. We're sure Andy will do his best to make next year's football season a success.

Most college students are asked what they plan to do when they receive their diplomas, but if you interview the Juniors you will discover that they are "doing things" right now. In a college which provides Self Help, the Juniors are represented in numerous phases of interesting work. The dairy boys answer "present" to our class roll. The waiters are well represented, and other kitchen duties are performed by our members. Do you know who's the switchboard girl? She may be a Junior. Some of the boys do electrical repair work, and there's Bennie in the Print Shop. A number of our group do office work, and several are clerks downtown. If any of you want to be married, we can furnish the preacher. And if you consider the warm rooms this winter when it was freezing outside, perhaps you'll remember Win.

If you are interested in adventure, you might have a chat with some of the Juniors. Bill Grandia has spent four years in the navy, and Win Holmes has been a merchant marine fireman for the past year. Win has taken several trips to Cuba, one to Miami, and last summer he spent one week in Holland and Belgium. He tells me that he is impressed with the fact that although customs and manners differ in the countries where he's been, other people's ways of thinking on subjects of government, war and peace are similar to ours. Here's your chance to hear about sea life first-hand, instead of reading your story books.

It's impossible to overlook the faithful work of the Quaker Staff in preparing this annual. It takes time and effort to make the attempt a success, and if you don't believe it, try it some time.

You've met only a few of the Juniors, but if you try, you'll find many more things about them than you ever knew before.

Class of 1941

The class of '41 is moving ahead. To begin with we won the rock fight for the second consecutive time. It wasn't by brawn, but by our superior mental abilities that we were able to hide the rock and paint it red.

In all football games members of our class took an active part and battled loyally for the blue and gold. At the end of the season we found five of our members winning awards. Most outstanding of the letter winners was Charles "Chuck" Bainbridge, quarterback and signal caller of the Penn eleven who was elected by sports writers and coaches to the quarterback position on the mythical Iowa Conference team.

Keister, Trent, and Bainbridge upheld class honors during the 1938-39 basketball season. Trent ranked twelfth in scoring among all players participating in the Iowa Conference. At the end of the season Bainbridge was elected honorary captain.

As the thin-clads took to the cinder paths Ambrose "Amby" Doller was elected captain for the 1939 season.

Through the efforts of our fairer sex we received many coveted honors. Gweneth Bryant was chosen as all-college homecoming queen. In her queenly attire, Gweneth reigned over the homecoming parade and at the football game.

Among our members are the officers of the Penn Elementary Club: Mary Gardner, president; Ruth Koch, vice-president; and Gweneth Bryant, secretary. These of our class have developed and fostered this new organization on Penn Campus.

As a student of the music department Mary Martha Hoar has provided many delightful programs in Chapel and Vespers.

Small, agile, vociferous Tommy Crawford is a person that the campus could not get along without. As cheer leader he has spurred the fighting Quakers into battle. In the drama department he is continually called upon to make his unique stage sets.

We Sophomores are also a very efficient bunch. Bill McCord has been working in the heating plant, Barbara Nichols has been a big help in the bindery, Lillian Anderson holds an important job in the kitchen, Louis Dye is usually the fellow who greets you in the bookstore, Dean Morris is active in the chemistry department, and Neva Reynolds, Bryda Leonard and Margaret McCracken have been outstanding in library work.

Many of our class members have ably carried on the activities of the Christian Workers.

Class of 1942

Many and mighty were the 1938 new entrants of William Penn College. These students, representing eight states, with their enrollment climbing higher than any other class, were ambitious and showed themselves talented and interested in many of the fine activities on the campus.

They entered as "green freshies" and could take it despite the disappointment when the scheming sophomores hid the rock before the annual fight and returned it red.

The freshman orientation class which had its first trial on the Penn campus proved helpful to the new students, who could be distinguished by their green caps.

In the department of speech these students made noteworthy appearance. En masse they became three tribes of Indians in the bi-annual Penn Day Pageant. In the all-college Christmas play, "The Doctor of Lonesome Folks," one-third of the cast was chosen from the Freshman class. Drama club beckoned to many, and in forensics they showed possibilities for the future.

In athletics the freshmen were outstanding. In the fall, football called to many of the bigger fellows, and they played in the successful season. At the close of the basketball season, five of the eleven highest scorers were freshmen. Countless "green" lads trained in spring sports—tennis, track and baseball. They are coming up rapidly, and possibilities of the future teams are bright. Even the girls reigned supreme in athletics. Not only was the varsity basketball team out of proportion in favor of the freshmen, but in the other sports they were outstanding.

Under the guidance of Professors Marion T. Nagler and Murray Baylor, freshmen students made fine appearances. Ben Sheperd presented the tenor solos in the "Messiah" which was given by the combined John Fletcher and William Penn College choirs. Other freshmen appeared in chapel programs, concerts, and the "Mikado." The college band consisted of many freshmen, and the little German Band was nearly all freshmen.

The freshmen leave behind them their block of cement in the initial letter "P" which symbolizes the loyalty and sincerity of the class of 1942.

Henry Edwin McGrew

President Drives for Progress

Returning to Penn College after a ten year's absence, President Edwin McGrew again is guiding, for the second year, the destinies of William Penn College. With his return to the college a practically new faculty was brought in to carry out the plans which he soon formulated.

The growth and expansion of the college culminated in a banquet given in his honor by the student body on March 25, 1939. A gift was presented by the student body to Dr. McGrew in the chapel service of March 3, 1939, commemorating his birthday.

The toast program of the banquet included talks by Gweneth Bryant, Willard Ragan, Dr. Stokes, and Mrs. Corlett, representing the town folk. Gweneth Bryant and Willard Ragan spoke on behalf of the student body in appreciation of the work and leadership carried on by Dr. McGrew. Dr. Stokes spoke for the faculty. Music was provided by the music department. Mr. Charles Haworth, principal of the Oskaloosa High School, served as toast master.

Economy, Diplomacy, United--

The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of our campus is none other than our vice-president and business manager, Mr. Paul Nelson Russell. The analogy carries through as the Dr. Jekyll in the man is the suave vice-president, the Mr. Hyde in the man is the money demanding business manager.

Confidentially, we wouldn't trade jobs with this ever-busy business man. We may growl and grumble about paying our fees and tuition, but our hat's off to the college magician. The position of business manager has been capably filled by Mr. Russell.

During the year Mr. Russell has been active with the Athletic and Academic Committees of the faculty.

Care plus Judgment

- Good Printing is not necessarily expensive—it is a matter of care and judgment in its preparation and production. Care and judgment . . . two mighty meaningful words to consider when you order printing. Care and judgment signify the skill, the training, the experience, the talent of the printer who does your work. Paper, ink, type, and other materials that the printers use are standard, but the finished product depends upon Care and Judgment.
